

Designed by renowned British floral decorator Kenneth Turner,

Hotel New Otani Tokyo's elegant Red Rose Garden opened on November 1, 2000, on the rooftop as a means to insulate heat and thus reduce air-conditioning power.

Over 30 breeds of red roses decorate the 2,500-square-meter expanse, which present 30,000 blooms of varying sizes, shapes, colors, and scents during bloom periods.

The garden is also a popular wedding venue with the exuberance of red blooms creating a romantic ambience.
